I understand the following:

- If I decide to drop the course, I will obtain permission from the instructor and inform the Law School registrar's office. If an examination is required in the course, no drop forms will be accepted once the examination period has begun.
- I must file any necessary forms with my school's registrar by the stated deadlines for my school. My school will determine fees for dropping courses.
- My school registrar will determine whether I may take this course for credit and my school registrar will determine the number of credits that I may earn for the course.
- The Law School's calendar may differ from my school's calendar; exams may be held after the end of my school's term; grades may not be available by the deadline for my school.
- The schedule of class meetings, the administration of the final examination for the course, the course requirements, and the submission of final grades follow the Law School rules, calendar and deadlines, and are not subject to change to accommodate my school's rules or calendar.
